The Temple of God

Any declarations man may make in which the name of Jesus Christ is used reverently will contact the spiritual ether in which the Christ I AM lives and will open the mind and body to the inflow of spiritual healing rays.
— Charles Fillmore

You live in God; God lives in you. The life you have been praying for is here, in you now. The healing you have been praying for is already accomplished, for you are one with God's healing power right now.

This law of spiritual healing involves full receptivity on our part. God does not do anything in us against our will. Whenever we have an experience of sickness, it is evidence that we have been letting go of our hold on the life of God. We have ceased to eagerly appropriate, assimilate, and make use of the life of Spirit through our thoughts, words, acts, and living habits.

It is up to us to accept our God-given perfection for ourselves, to put aside past mistakes and untrue suggestions, and to fix our undivided attention on the Creator of our inner pattern of perfection. We must bring all our mental attitudes, the centers of our consciousness, and even our physical being to the high place in Divine Mind where we see as God sees. From this spiritual viewpoint we'll find ourselves in our right and natural state of health and well-being.

How differently we feel when we think of our body as the temple of the living God, as the actual dwelling place of the Holy Spirit. How differently we feel when we realize that there is only one life, Divine life, and that this life flows through us, a mighty, healing, purifying cleansing stream.

Such thoughts are so inspiring and life-giving that we aspire to cease talking about anything but life. We no longer attach importance to every little twinge, or ache or pain. We declare life, we hold to life, we express life. And in doing so, we are healed!

Join us for our October series, The Unity Guide to Healing and be prepared to step into greater health and wholeness.

Chaplain's Corner

Take it to Prayer

When I became a Unity of Auburn prayer chaplain, I signed a commitment that I would, among other things, maintain a regular practice of prayer and meditation. In becoming a chaplain, I was mentored by gifted practitioners who shared their time and talents with me so that I could better serve my spiritual community. We practiced writing denials and affirmations as part of our initial prayer process. The over 80 hours of training in the past 4 years have helped me develop a regular prayer practice. However, I eventually became aware of a truth about prayer that I need to share with you.

Sometimes while preparing my chaplain corner or Board articles, I can experience "writer's block". I usually have several ideas that I want to express, but I cannot seem to get them out of my head and onto the computer screen. I typically start and stop a number of times as my frustration level grows. The words simply will not flow. And then, I think: What if I stop and say a prayer. I sit back in my chair, focus on my breath, allow myself to relax, then follow the other steps of my chaplain prayer process (affirming one presence/one power, meditation/silence, denials and affirmations, gratitude). I begin thinking of denials and affirmations focused on the powers within me that I can use to compose the piece. Prayer enables me to get my mind still, to open my heart, and to trust that the right words will come. And the words do come.

I have realized that it is not enough to pray when everything is going well and expressions of joy and gratitude come easily. I need to use prayer as my first step whenever I encounter a challenge or problem. Whether I am alone or in a difficult discussion with others, I can say, "I need to take this to prayer." Prayer will guide me to my truth, and my truth will free me to consciously use my spiritual powers in a way that inspires, uplifts, and serves another from my authentic self.

May prayer be your first response when faced with a challenge. It will enable you to access the gifts within you, empowering you to approach any situation with grace, strength, wisdom and faith.

The board has asked me to highlight volunteer opportunities, but first I have good news! The Jubilee Tea exceeded our expectations both in attendance and in fundraising! Our core volunteers stepped forward to plan the tea, set up the sanctuary, prepare delicious food, make fascinators, serve food, model in a fashion show, and clean up after the event. One of my dear friends paid for her ticket, ate one bowl of fruit, and then washed dishes for hours!

At the tea after the food had been served, I had the chance to observe the scene. We had many guests from outside our congregation. The room was full of lovely ladies enjoying the food, tea, the company, and the fashion show. Our fabulous gentlemen waiters looked dapper in their Union Jack bow ties. They did a wonderful job of serving. The fashion show highlighted the great buys we offer at Unity Thrift and Gift. The room hummed with good energy. The scene made me think of a Renoir painting.

Please follow me on a tangent: I grew up with a pencil in my hand. I learned to draw well. I love drawing, but it is akin to running a marathon foot race. It is just me and the pencil focused for hours on the subject. Later in life I took up watercolor painting. That is a very different experience. It is like dancing a tango with an excellent Argentinian partner. Every tube of paint has its own properties. The colors interact in serendipitous ways. The painting emerges like a magic trick on its own in ways I never would have expected. Watercolor painting is always an adventure and a surprise. As I enjoyed the tea, I thought volunteering is like that!

Our church is so much more than a building. What makes it hum is the talents and energies of unique individuals working together. I cherish the times I have spent getting to know the great people here at Unity. When I volunteer, I get to see all the wonderful things each of them has to offer the world. You don't have to do a whole bunch; show up, spend a few hours a week in the thrift store, serve coffee on Sundays, work with the kids when they come, lend your talents and treasure in the creation of one of our events, bring a friend on Sunday. Show us YOUR COLORS and join us in making our ministry a masterpiece!

We have some great events coming up on the calendar:
